Miscellaneous

On December 20, 2019 the Nome Police Dispatch Center received a report that Office of Children Services workers, Angel Garcia and Jenna Pixey failed to report to court that morning and were last seen the previous day at 7 p.m. The State owned Blue Ford Expedition was also unaccounted for. Nome Interim Police Chief Mike Heintzelman requested Search and Rescue. Chief Jimmy West Jr. was notified and his response team was assembled. Police Department personnel lead by Sergeant Gray Harrison began running down leads and found the women were last seen at 10 p.m. the previous night in Icy View subdivision.

The Alaska State Troopers C Detachment was notified and they also responded with their resources as the search expanded outside the Nome City limits. The Nome Police, Alaskan State Troopers and Search and Rescue worked together throughout the day in a driving snow storm. Daylight began to fade as Bering Air Helicopter pilot Russell Rowe was cleared to take off along with spotters Erica Wieler and Aaron Cooper. The women were located uninjured with their vehicle at Mile 28 Kougarak Road outside the City of Nome. They had reportedly ventured out to watch the northern lights when their vehicle got stuck in snow.

Interim Police Chief Mike Heintzelman wished to personally thank the 22 search and rescue volunteers assisting Chief West, Alaskan State Troopers lead by Sergeant Witrosky, Bering Air Pilot and spotters, Nome Police Officers and dispatch communications officers.

Trooper Beat

On 12/17/19 at approximately 1 p.m. AST arrested Harry Tocktoo, 31 of Brevig Mission, on a $10,000 arrest warrant for violation of felony probation. Tocktoo was transported and remanded to AMCC.

On 12/20/2019 at approximately 11:20 a.m., 28-year-old Jenna Pixey of Eagle River and 22-year-old Angel Garcia of Anchorage were reported missing to the Alaska State Troopers. Local SAR resources were deployed, and both individuals were located safe at 4:15 p.m. about 28 miles out of town. They had been unable to return to Nome the previous night due to vehicle issues. Troopers would like to thank the Nome Volunteer Fire/Ambulance Dept, Nome PD, and Bering Air for their assistance.

On 12/20/2019 at 8:30 p.m., an assault was reported in Shishmaref. Investigation resulted in the arrest of 56-year-old Lorraine Jungers for Assault 4th (DV). Jungers was transported to AMCC and held pending arraignment.

“This decision is a carefully thought out and conservative approach to recognize the balance between conservation and Alaska’s right to manage our own resources. We are confident that we’ve struck that balance in this decision and will be monitoring to avoid over harvest yet provide our fishermen the opportunity to fish,” he said in an email message.

Governor Mike Dunleavy added in a statement that he trusts ADF&G to monitor and manage the fishery in a way that avoids overharvest and yet provides an opportunity to fish and provide tax revenues for fishing towns.

Around 225 boats of all sizes fish for cod in the Gulf of Alaska, including trawlers, longliners, pot boats and jiggers, each an independent business supporting several families. The Gulf cod outlook is grim with surveys showing very few tiny cod in the water. Worse, an even hotter blob appears to be on the horizon, said Steve Barbeaux, a scientist with NOAA Alaska Fisheries Science Center.

The future is getting harder to predict, said Nat Nichols, area groundfish manager at ADF&G in Kodiak, because decades of robust data used to assess the stocks no longer apply. “All of a sudden all the data you collected in the 80s and 90s about how ocean conditions affect certain stocks start to become a lot less useful for making predictions because it’s so different than anything we’ve seen,” Nichols said. “If you’re trying to compare ocean conditions this year and make a forecast for next year, that works pretty well if you’ve seen these conditions before. But if you haven’t, it starts to fall apart pretty quick.”

Meanwhile, Trident Seafoods announced last month that it will close its Sand Point processing plant at Sand Point for the winter. It is the first such closure at Sand Point since 1898 when it was founded by a San Francisco fishing company as a cod fishing station and trading post.

Pacific cod is Alaska’s second largest groundfish catch by volume topping 510 million pounds in 2018 (a 22 percent decrease from 2017), according to an economic status report by the North Pacific Fishery Management Council plan team. The combined dockside value of Bering Sea and Gulf cod catches in 2018 totaled $225 million, reflecting a 59 percent drop in the Gulf to just $29 million.

There will be a 2020 cod fishery in the Bering Sea of 305.5 million pounds, down by nearly one million pounds.

Fishing futures

The Alaska Young Fishermen’s Summit since 2007 has helped build a sustained network of fishing operations across the state and the next gathering is set for January 21 to 23, 2020 in Juneau. The AYFS, sponsored by Alaska Sea Grant, will have drawn over 500 attendees after the Juneau event, said Sunny Rice, a Sea Grant marine advisor at Petersburg who has helped organize eight summits over 12 years.

“I’m starting to feel like we are influencing a generation a little bit,” she said, adding that it’s a fast-paced three days of learning and networking. “We start by giving new entrants into commercial fisheries the opportunity to meet each other so they can connect, and then they meet people who have been established in the industry for a long time and glean information from them,” she said.

The summit focuses on three themes, with an emphasis on the business of running a fishing operation. How Alaska seafood fits into the global picture is another topic, Rice said. That will include the views of the PCC Market group, the nation’s largest consumer owned food cooperative based in Seattle since 1953.

“Their focus is on sustainability and they love Alaska seafood,” Rice said.

The summit also digs into the fishery regulatory process. “How do you participate in the Board of Fisheries, what do you need to know when a decision is being made at the Council level that impacts your business,” she explained. “How you can get on your local harbor board, be a part of your RSDA or your CDQ or your local fish and game advisory committee.”

A changing climate’s impacts on fisheries also is on the agenda and Rice said she’s surprised at how many fishermen now call it their top concern for the future.

The Juneau event also let’s summit-goers meet with Alaska legislators at the start of the session.

Discounts apply for sign ups through January 7. AMSEA also is offering a free Fishing Vessel Drill Conductor class in conjunction with the Summit.

Fishermen’s Almanac #2

Personal glimpses that chronicle the fishing life make up the Alaska Young Fishermen’s Almanac and volume 2 is available now. The 124-page book contains 50 submissions from across Alaska.

“The almanac serves as a cultural touchstone for a community that not a lot of people outside of that community can find a window into. For people who fish it’s a really great community builder. And people who don’t can get a window into this livelihood and why it’s important and worth preserving,” said Jamie O’Connor of Homer, a fisherman who heads the working waterfront and young fishermen’s programs for the Alaska Marine Conservation Council.

The first Alamac last year was so popular it covered the costs for volume 2 and it may go to a second printing.

“Last time there were lots of really cool photos and this time we still got great photos, but a lot more original art and written pieces which is really exciting,” O’Connor said.

The Almanac is modeled after a publication for farmers that dates back to 1792.

Find the AK Young Fishermen’s Almanac at local stores, community events and online at www.akmarine.org.

State of Alaska
Department of Natural Resources
Division of Mining, Land and Water

Public Notice Under AS 38.05.945

2020 Nome Offshore Lease Sale for Locatable Minerals

In accordance with AS 38.05.035 and AS 38.05.250 in 2011, the State of Alaska Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Division of Mining, Land and Water (DMLW) produced the Final Finding and Decision to hold an offshore lease sale for locatable minerals for tide and submerged lands offshore of Nome, Alaska. The conclusion of the finding and decision found that it was in the best interest for the State of Alaska and its residents to offer a portion of the proposed area for competitive bidding, providing time to monitor the environmental effects of mining and reserving portions of the sale area for possible future lease sales. As a result, 83 leases were offered for just over 23,000 acres of land. A total of 10 established leases and one modified lease with a total of about 1060 acres were never given or have since been terminated. Therefore, DNR will be having a lease sale for the already established offshore lease tracts that currently do not have a lessee. The proposed lease sale will include lands in the table listed below, and are referenced in our Land Administrative System (LAS) at: <http://dnr.alaska.gov/landrecords/>.

The 2020 Nome Lease Sale will be a sealed bid process, with a live, open to the public reading of the sealed bids on March 23, 2020. Miners will be able to make and send their sealed bids to the State of Alaska starting on January 1, 2020 until 5:00pm (AKST) on February 28, 2020. The minimum bid for each tract is indicated in in the bidding packet available on our website at: (<http://dnr.alaska.gov/mlw/mining/nome/>). Additional information including a map, bidder Statement of Qualifications, bidding instructions and forms, and lessee’s responsibilities are also available in the packet online.

Successful bidders in the lease sale will receive an offshore mining lease which grants exclusive right to the locatable minerals in the offshore leased boundaries on state-owned tide and submerged land. The lease tracts which range in size from 34 to 375 acres will be issued for a term of 10 years subject to renewal. Before mining operations are conducted on the leases, the operator or lessee will be required to acquire all necessary permits from the regulating agencies having jurisdiction.
